There is a great difference in opinions throughout the football world just why these teams have made such fine records. However, the main reason is that there is no more so-called small college teams playing to-day. Some ten years ago these same small colleges had no football system, no management, the men, while big and husky, had to look after themselves when injured, kept no training, came out to practise when they felt like it, made the team if they were friends of the captain or belonged to some good Greek letter fraternity or were big and looked like football players.

To-day finds these same teams with football systems are carried out; graduate managers to look after the systems are carried out; graduate managers to look after the business ends, organize the alumni; trainers with experience and ability to look after their physical wants, athletic fields that compare with the best. The men met in the one mile Brassard, a weekly match which has been held throughout the season at the track. The conditions call for the man winning the event the week previous to defend it against a new challenger. Clark was the defender and he clearly outrode Goullet, who only a week ago was de-feated for the American championship in riding off the season's tie. Clark was riding second and high on the bank a lap and a half from home when he "jumped" Goullet and passed the latter in the grand stand stretch.
